

I am writing to express my concern about how the FCC is proposing to allow LPFM stations priority over current FM translators. I have listened to Air 1 Radio for several years now in three different states. In each city Air 1 has been a voice of hope to all who will listen. This is providing a much needed service of spiritual guidance to people who might not get it any other way. Air 1 promotes stronger families and values. It is able to get in touch with people where they are in my community 24-7 and encourage them to be better people. This is especially true in Phoenix, where there are very few radio stations that promote such positive and responsible ideals. It is the only station that does this with music that young adults and teens would actually listen to. Air 1 is able to get to America's youth and give them something other than profanity and violence and crude adult type humor that most other radio stations promote. It would be a disservice to all communities that get Air 1 to disrupt this service. I hope my comments are not wasted. Thank you for your time. -John Wallis
